

SENSING DEVICE FOR DETERMINING A RAIN RATE

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A sensing device includes a piezoelectric vibration sensor mounted to a surface for producing an analog signal proportional to raindrops striking the surface, an amplifier, an analog-to-digital converter, and a processor for calculating the rain rate based on an exponential probability density function of a first order point process.